Where Is Democracy When Race Prejudice Exists? Asks Dr. Fisk

TELLS BIG IRC CROWD NEGRO SEGREGATION DELAYING VICTORY BY MONTHS

By DICK CUSHING

Sounding a sharp warning to the so-called "white race" to do away with racial discrimination, Dr. Alfred Fisk, State College theologian and philosopher, pulled no punches in telling a record International Relations Club meeting Monday that "we talk of the Four Freedoms, but are not practicing them here at home."

Citing instances upon instance in which negroes, have been beaten, discriminated against, segregated — and even hanged while wearing the uniform of the United States Army — Dr. Fisk dispelled vigorously the claim that any one race is superior.

He said the Army and the USO have banned distribution to servicemen of the booklet Races of Mankind, in which an eminent sociologist points out that negroes are equal to whites, and superior in some sections because of better environments, and asked:

AFRAID OF TRUTH?

"Are we, like the Nazis, afraid of scientific truth?"

"Is our attitude any different from Hitler's, 'We the master race', in our attitude toward the negro?"

Dr. Fisk told the crowd of about 150 that most army camps are more concerned with breaking the spirit of the negro than training him for war, and this, he said, "is delaying victory by the months."

He cited figures to the effect (Continued on page 8)

Walk, Don't Run! Advises Helgren

Sylvia Helgren, high senior and member of Bib 'n Tucker, has decided that it doesn't pay to be on time. You may have noticed her packing, with great difficulty, that ten-pound cast on her right leg from class to class.

Miss Helgren, a resident of San Bruno, has for the past three and a half years of her college life allowed herself enough time to run from her house and maintain the honor of being the last person on the end coach of the northbound train.

Tiring of this routine she decided to start anew, and on the morning of the new trial she arrived at the station two minutes early. Swelling with pride as the train glided into the station, she stepped over the tracks and — her ankle turned on a large rick — the strain broke a smaller bone and now she is confined to wearing her cast for six weeks.

Miss Helgren says, the only advantage to her situation is "that it saves on shoe leather."

Drama Star

Marylin Thorsander has been at State for less than a year but during that time she appeared in more play performances than anyone else during a comparable period.

Born in Chicago, she attended Chicago Junior College, and Coe College in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, before coming to State. Debating and drama were her principal interests. She appeared in "Spring Dance", playing the part that Lillian Calver did in our production in "Nine Pine Street", and as charming ghost in "Blithe Spirit".

She has appeared at Army Camp shows in "Breakfast for Two", "Her Sainted Grandmother", "West End Tragedy", and "Letters", as emcee, and giving monologues. In addition, she is a member of the G. I. Stock Company of the Presidio. Here on home ground she appears June 1, and 2 as 'Amanda' in S. N. Behrman's "No Time for Comedy". Rehearsals indicate that Marylin will give a delightful performance and add another triumph to her credit.

War Bond Offered In Short Story Contest

Franciscan Editor Issues Final Data

Mary McGrath, Franciscan editor, reassured Stater today that the 1944 Franciscan would be out about May 25, as previously announced.

In an effort to keep deadline dates, an emergency studio has been set up in Anderson Hall 114, so all Staters who weren't able to have their pictures taken at Fisher's Studio would not be left out of this year's Franciscan.

The staff will sell books from April 24 to 28 and students may also pay their deposit in the student body office. The price is one dollar down and one dollar when the book comes out in May. This will be the last chance the students will have to buy the Franciscan.

Cut Rule Committee Results In Failure

An attempt by Dean P. F. Valentine to organize a meeting of the faculty and students to discuss the present "cut" rule now in effect resulted in failure. The faculty members named on the committee were present at the appointed time but only two out of the six appointed student members showed up.

The student-faculty committee grew out of the campus-wide opinion that "something should be done about the cut ruling", and

ATTENTION! STUDENTS-FACULTY!

A general Student Body Meeting will be held Wednesday, April 26, to discuss the "cut" rule and other general grievances, time permitting. Watch for notices on bulletin boards for time and place.

Dean Valentine organized the committee with the hope that some agreement would be reached. After last Monday's failure however, Dean Valentine remarked: "The meeting was adjourned indefinitely and it is now up to the students to take the initiative."

The student-faculty committee who failed to attend the scheduled meeting were: Student Body President Aubrey Wendling; Secretary of A. W. S. Betty Jane Rank, Athletic Representative Dick Murray and Alice Dostie, Music Fed. Representative Misses Edith Mareck and Evelyn Woodard were the two students who attended the meeting along with the faculty members.

Alpha Pi Nu Hike To Muir Woods Sunday

Muir Woods will be the destination of an Alpha Pi Nu, pre-nursing club, hike next Sunday. Club members will meet at the Greyhound depot at Seventh Street at 9:30 o'clock, and proceed to Mill Valley, where they will start their hike to Muir Woods, according to Jeanne Johnstone, president of the club.

After the hike the girls will be guests of Mrs. Julie Petersen at her Mill Valley home. Those who are going on the hike are asked to bring their lunch.

Gater Urges All Students to Participate in Scramble for Cash and Glory

By Tom Thorpe

Here is your opportunity to try your hand at short story writing.

The Gater is conducting a short story contest. Not only will you have the chance to show off your creative writing talents, but the winner will be awarded a $25.00 War Bond, no strings attached.

All entries must be in within a one-month period starting today, in order that they may be judged fairly and publication made.

Manuscripts must be on regulation size paper, 8½ x 11, and written on one side only, double-spaced.

Your name, grade and post-box number must be enclosed on a separate sheet of paper. Each manuscript will be assigned a number and said number will be transcribed to the sheet with your name on it. Do not put your name anywhere on the manuscript itself. This is to insure complete fairness in judging.

Short stories must not exceed 1,500 words nor be less than 1,000 words.

The deadline: May 26.

The material entered may be on any subject and in any style, but must not be an "essay" type article nor an "editorial" type. This contest is purely for the purpose of discovering those students with talent for creative writing. The judges will base their decision on originality, plot, choice of words, surprise, suspense, or the idea expressed. The English Department, headed by Mrs. Witt-Diamant, will aid and advise students desiring to participate but will not proof-read or opine on finished manuscripts. The Gater Board of Directors reserves the right to keep all stories entered, guaranteeing that publication of any submitted manuscripts in future issues will be accorded a definite "by-line" to the author. The winning story will be printed in the last issue for this semester.

In order to effect enough entries, the $25.00 War Bond will not be awarded if fewer than 20 manuscripts, conforming to the rules, are received. In this event, all entries will be judged, and the winning story published, but no bond given.

There is no additional red-tape. Every person is eligible. We want you to write for your paper. We want you to win the $25.00 war bond. We know that you have a potential short story tucked away in your mind; let's all read it!

Typewritten manuscripts are preferred but not essential. Handwritten manuscripts will not count against you.

Get those stories into the Gater now. One month is a short time!

Music Students Test Children

State music students, under Mr. Freeburg's direction, have been giving tests to some of the children at Frederic Burk. The tests cover the children's aptitude in tone, rhythm, and other musical qualities.

Evolutionary Proof

—Courtesy S. F. Examiner

Polly Reddel, Gater columnist who has recently contested the evolutionary theories of Dr. Walter Hacker, instructor in Anthropology, today presented living proof of the physical and mental resemblance of man to monkey. Dr. Hacker, who could not be reached for comment, has always contended that the homo sapiens have not evolved from monkey but from an entirely different branch of the hereditary tree.

Polly, however, is still firm in her conviction that our ancestors were once climbing about trees looking much like the monkeys of today.

Should Schicklegruber be Shot, Hung, or Displayed?

Just suppose that you—personally—were given the opportunity to do with Adolf Hitler as you desired. Suppose that you had the power to dispose of this mad-man, how would you go about it? We are reminded of a radio program heard some time ago, wherein various participants were asked, "how would you deal with Hitler after the war is over?"

The most fantastic—and yet understandable—plan was forwarded by a Polish refugee. He advocated tying Hitler to a stake in the center of Germany. Small fagots and kindling would be placed underneath the matchbox-like platform. Radiating out from this pyre structure would be many fuses which would travel across hill and dale into the various lowland countries and finally emerge as one big fuse at some pre-determined location. At this head-point, a special day would be set aside as an international holiday for the purpose of igniting the "master" fuse, which, when lit, would traverse the entire length of fuse lines with the ultimate purpose of eventually burning right up to Hitler's toes, setting fire to the stake and burning the culprit alive. Each village, town and country through which a fuse ran would close up shop; proclaim the holiday, and people would line the streets, waiting for the small blaze to come running along their fuse. Cheers, shouts of joy and delirium, would reign as these war-torn peoples anxiously awaited for the approach of that small flame to emerge. After the fuse burnt up through a particular village, the people would return to their daily chores, safe in the knowledge that that which they just witnessed meant the final destruction of one whom they had hated so long.

As the Polish refugee talked, he seemed to come alive with the idea. His eyes brightened perceptibly and his voice trembled. The conclusion of this suspense-filled plot was that the fuse, once it reached the set-up pyre, would be stamped out just in time by one of the German populace. Immediately the man would be set upon by the rest of the spectators. "Why stop the fuse?" he would be asked. "Let him burn!" others would shout. Whereupon the man would demand silence from the crowd and in fine German reply: "This is too good to stop now. Let's run some more fuses out and start all over again!"

So there's one man's idea of what to do with Hitler after it's all over. What would you suggest? Drop your ideas, suggestions and opinions in the Gater Box.

Will Inflation Bring Hangtown Prices Back?

BY DON PAGANI

If the high prices of restaurant food and service distress you, read what the menu of a hotel in Hangtown, California, promised you for a price in 1850.

Ninety-four years ago, according to a menu from the El Dorado Hotel, bean soup cost one dollar a portion, two potatoes had a price of 75 cents, rice pudding with molasses brought the proprietor of the hotel one dollar a serving, and a "square meal with dessert", could be had for three dollars.

A footnote on the menu adds a significant "payable in advance" and indicates that gold scales will be found at the end of the bar.

With the present price of food sky-high, we begin to wonder whether Hangtown prices are again in vogue. Give it some thought, because inflation will lead to another Hangtown. Those who come home from the battle fields should have the guarantee that we promised them. Let's keep it a place "so nice to come home to". Don't let Hangtown again rear its ugly head within our midst.

Notes From The Alley

By Jim Lindsey

Flash! The first concert of this term to be given on campus will be that of the Treble Clef Club, under the direction of Dr. Wendell Otey. This will take place next Thursday noon in Frederic Burk Auditorium, and all students are invited to attend. An additional attraction will be the Flute Trio, which will play on the same program.

The date of the College Symphony concert has been set for the evening of May fifth, with the College Chorus following later, in the term. Band and A Capella concert dates have not yet been set; although both have already performed this term at the opening assembly.

Formal education is a wonderful thing, but some people take it too seriously. An example of this is Roger Daynes, a bass-slapping fixture on the Alley, who appeared in a tux for last Friday's bout with knowledge. Many of us began to worry about the dangers of this becoming a general thing, until the good man informed us that these were merely his working clothes, as those in other lines of endeavor often wore jeans to school. So ended our satorial scare.

Spring is a wonderful time of year, and its arrival has not been unheralded by showers, or unnoticed by Music Alleycats. Should you doubt this statement, it is suggested that you notice such items as missed entrances in orchestra, empty seats in classrooms, and full benches in the Alley, and last and not least, an occasional pair of white shoes making a reluctant appearance.

Musical Impressions

(Symphony For Voices—Roy Harris)

Standing by the bow, I could observe everything on the dock and the ship. Here I felt the full sting of the brisk wind. The ship backed into the middle of the bay. Before turning into the canal, the boat idled for a moment, and gave me the impression that it was holding its breath. Then it turned its head into the stream, and the scene passed swiftly now.

There was a mixture of noises in the air—the hum of the ship, the circling gulls overhead, and the voices from the sea, itself—great agonizing roars sent up into the cloudy noon, as the ship cut mercilessly through the little breakers.

The wind whispered in my ears—such strange things—I would not listen, close my ears to these alien words. Now the waters took up this chant—STOP—I would not listen.

But you shall listen! What right, what right, we ask, to disturb this our home. We have given our lives—let us rest in peace, peace is all we ask.

The motion of the ship, the creaks and straws merged into a hollow sob. The voices again—strange, they sounded sweeter, more appealing than before—I wanted to listen now, listen with my whole being. Yes, I hear, I listen . . .

Here is happiness, here with us; join us in peace, sweet peace with us.

Where, for God's sake, where, I screamed . . .

Come to us, over the railing, that's it—no, don't look back, coward, look onward.

I come, I shall be with you—in peace, sweet peace—I come, I come.

As Handsome Does

BY MURIEL MILLER

Your eyes are the most important part of your face whether they have been put behind glasses or not. And no make-up tricks in the world can do for them what plenty of good rest and sleep can do.

"When in doubt, don't pluck," is the best slogan for eyebrows. If they cover too much territory, by all means remove the strays but don't touch the main lines.

Eyebrows give interest and expression to the eyes, so don't go to extremes by cutting them down to nothing or letting them grow untended and wild.

If your face is narrow and your eyes too close set, pluck them back a little from the middle of your face and lengthen the ends with a fine pointed pencil. Use the pencil sparingly in light, quick strokes and blend it into the brow itself.

With a short or round face, a long arch will do wonders. A high arch will give the impression of length.

When brows and lashes are too light in color or just generally insignificant, a little mascara lends excitement. Cake mascara is dependable and won't wear off until washed. Have your brush very clean and just slightly damp for each application. Brush up from the roots and across the tips. Don't try to plaster on a whole mass with one coat. Obvious mascara is worse than none at all. If the first coat isn't enough, let it dry and with a clean brush apply a second coat. Brush it into your brows against the grain and then with another dry brush smooth them into place.

Eye shadow is in bad taste for daytime wear and should be applied sparingly in the evening. You frilly, feminine little things can do without it entirely—it takes the glamorous or exotic type with several years of experience behind her to get away with it.

Match it to your eyes or skin tone. Apply it to the lid and fade it up to the brows. Too much color will give a heavy-lidded effect.

Now go out and blink those glimmers!

LIPSTICK—HOW TO WEAR IT

You must have learned in your Psychology 1-A that the mouth is the most expressive part of the face. How does your mouth face the world? Does it stay sweet and bright even after that sate class or does that early morning slap dash of lipstick sour before noon?

Most of us find the kind of lipstick we like best by the trial and error method, but it's good to know on these uncertain spring days of cold wind that those of a more oily consistency serve as excellent protection against chapping.

When putting on lipstick get it well in toward the corners of the mouth but not actually in them to eliminate the ugly ways it has of smearing at these danger points.

The day of the glamour girl with her outsized mouth is well past. Follow the natural line of the lips when at all possible. If your mouth is just too thin or small, then do go a little over the edge but still with your own natural shape. Use a lipstick brush in this case to give a clean sweeping line.

Woolies For Ohio State Campus

Woolies may be the style this year, not for beauty's sake, but for more practical purposes on the Ohio State campus.

All the buildings on campus will be kept under 70 degrees in temperature in compliance with President Bevis' request to save fuel," Paul H. Elleman, maintenance engineer, said recently in a warning to Ohio Staters.

Reasons for having more heat turned on will have to be pretty good to get results, he added.

It is doubtful that the coeds at Ohio State will go back to "grandma's day" and wear six or eight petticoats, a muff or even long underwear, but more slacks and flannel skirts may be expected to be seen on campus.

Student Teachers Direct Excursions

Student teachers at Frederic Burk have recently directed a number of excursions for the children. Among the places they have visited are the zoo, Chinatown, the Mission Dolores, Golden Gate Park and the Academy of Sciences.

They're Not Dwarfs—Only Messengers

Maybe you have been a little startled lately to see grammar-school children invading your sacred college halls. They are members of Frederic Burk's "Service in School" organization and carry messages to and from all parts of the college and the training school. The yellow caps are the SIS insignia.

Gracefulness in Women . . . If Any

By Tom Thorpe

Gracefulness in women, in most cases, is a lost art. Or perhaps it has never been found. Take, for example, a woman entering one of our modern automobiles. The posterior portion of their anatomy usually feels the way and the head is then placed chin down in typical "Full-Nelson" style in order to avoid misplacement of that indefinable something misnamed, a hat. As most automobiles have doors—and most women have legs—it now becomes necessary to deposit these lower limbs within the confines of said automobile. This is ordinarily accomplished by raising above limbs and pivoting sharply on the posterior. Needless to say, when these physical gyrations are executed with benefit of slacks, the effect is considerably lessened.

Now that we have our fair subject safely in the automobile, I suppose you'd say that this was that. Such is not the case. After our lady has succeeded in adopting a face-forward, sitting-up position, she finds that some part of her apparel has not followed its natural rhythmic lines, but has wrinkled or bunched up between seat of automobile and that part of her an said seat. This latest development involves real coordination between all parts of the human anatomy. I've found the most popular method used to relieve this uncomfortable situation is for the person concerned to brace her shoulders and back against the seat; place both feet firmly on the floorboard and raise up quickly, at the same time sweeping both hands underneath and restoring the guilty garments to their lagical place. As I say, this feat of suspending one's midriff is strenuous and should be practiced for just such an occasion. If everything is really mused up, you may not be able to stay in the air long enough and coming down too soon may result in a broken wrist—or garter belt.

Now our fair femme is all adjusted, physically. She gropes for her keys in her handbag, finding them just underneath the kitchen sink and alongside the copy of Esquire. She puts the keys in the ignition, starts the motor and, under the assumption that she is going to vacate the parking place, a man pulls up in back of her, double-parking of course. But wait! Oh yes, we must have a cigarette, Deah, mustn't we? More groping brings forth a King-sizer, which, when placed between the lips and directly center of the mouth gives our subject the appearance of a Ubangi who just got socked with a ripe tomato. Our male parking-place seeker, in the meantime is being made the butt of various and sundry derogatory remarks, issued to him by passing motorists.

Our female place-holder has now calmed down her nerves to the extent where she feels that she can venture out into the cruel, cruel, road. But does she? I should say not! Who ever heard of a female venturing out without gloves? Now starts the frantic search. "Oh gosh, where are those gloves?" "Let's see, I was in the restroom at the Emporium — Yes!, that's where I left them."

The fair damsel shuts off the motor; tosses the stub out of the window; exits from the vehicle, let me state that the subject of "Women Exiting From Vehicles" is too extensive to be dealt with at this point, and goes hopping Emporium-bound for her gloves.

She jumps around at the anguished scream of brakes; people are milled around the double-parked car. "S' funny world, remarked somebody, 'this guy just deliberately got out of his car and threw himself in front of these cars.'"

Our fair lady shrugged her shoulders. "I wonder," she mused, "if I left those gloves in Hale Bros!"

Staters Amazed As Designer Tells Of Future Architecture

A large group of interested students filled room 208 last Friday, when Mr. Jan Reiner, designer and architect, lectured on "Modern Design and Architecture".

The lecture was supplemented by slides that showed some excellent examples of the modern trend in furniture design and building. Some of the ideas shown are already familiar to the public, such as in steel tube chairs, couches and tables, and glass walls, while other more advanced designs gave an idea of things to come.

The audience was intrigued by a couch that had three pairs of legs, the center pair being considerably longer than the other two so that it could be tilted to one side or the other with little effort and the person on it could have either his feet or his head up.

Of great interest to the engineer as well as the artist was the new idea in building on the cantilever principle, in which a whole floor, roof or balcony is supported only on one side, thus giving a feeling of unobstructed space to an interior.

Mr. Reiner studied extensively in Europe before the war and has been teaching in some of the main cities of the United States since. He came from Czechoslovakia and is a graduate of the University of Prague.

STUDENT BODY
CARDS REQUIRED

The requirement of purchasing a student body card for membership in all organizations on the campus has been ignored by many students. All groups, honorary or otherwise, are requested to check each of their active members for this requisition. If the ruling is not complied with, the allowance of funds from the student body will be discontinued and other measures will be taken as penalties.

Seek And Ye Shall Find

By ED MURRAY

Well this week I gathered a little gossip about a rather stupid fellow who you all know if you read this column. This fellow was going to do some homework at the home of another student. When he arrived this friend had company in the form of a senior-grade lieutenant. This Lt. was introduced as Charlie something-or-other. The subject of conservation gradually arrived at a discussion of State's baseball team. This student being honest, if not very bright, said he felt that State had been rather "in the Grace of God" when they played Cal and almost won. The lieutenant said his team had played Cal twice, lost one and won the other by a big score. Our hero then asked the lieutenant if he ever played baseball. He said he had — a little. Our bright student let this go for two or three hours and again baseball came up, under discussion and our brain asked Charlie who he played with. Charlie looked just a little embarrassed and said, "Well, I played two years with a semi-pro team and fifteen years with the Detroit Tigers. This kind of stopped our hero, but he didn't get the full appreciation until the next day when he discussed it with his team mates. It happened that this Charlie was Charlie Gehringer, greatest second baseman ever to play baseball and rated at the top with Ruth and Gherig. As you may have surmised the embarrassed brain discussed here is the writer of this column.

Last Saturday at San Jose, the baseball team and John Nazar were playing San Jose State. A rather amusing event took place — John was walking around the infield admiring the scenery when two cute little Mexican boys ran to John and hollering "Hi, Papa, where have you been?" One of them said, "Pop remember the penny you gave us as an allowance two years ago, we spent it."

Either Terry Flax likes that particular shade of olive-green or she was impressed by Norm Keller's write-ups! Hmmm! Poor Grove — looks like he's out again.

Ensign Irwin Fumigali, newly commissioned, visited here this past week and I mentioned a certain old flame of his, a Miss Lois Van Husen, and by his reaction neither time nor distance has changed anything!

Grace Pulzzi, Katherine Cumberg, and Renee Labore are my conception of patriotic tennis enthusiasts. They are down at the tennis courts hours every day, but do you think they are unpatriotic enough to needlessly wear out precious rubber tennis shoes. They certainly don't; they just sit and watch. I'm not sure if they watch tennis or Tim Haggerty and Jim Sasich.

Polly Redell is being lovingly addressed by her closer associates with a new handle — "cuddle-bunny". Curious isn't it?

The Danes and the Swedish do get along; I have a concrete example in mind.

Congratulations to Edy Mareck and Aimee Fanfelle — that's right he chased her 'til she caught him!

Alpha Omega Issues
State News-Letter

News-Letter, the semi-monthly publication by Alpha Omega is now being sent to more than 300 ex-staters in the service, it was announced today by Frances Neece, president of Alpha Omega.

The paper was originated by State business manager, Mr. Dave Schutz, in February, 1943, and was written and published by him until the beginning of this term.

The purpose of News-Letter is to keep State's men and women at war informed as to the whereabouts of each other, activities of the campus and the "goings on" around the town. It also includes jokes, and current local and national sports news.

"Letters or any news from GI Jo and Jane are welcome," said Frances Neece, speaking for Alpha Omega. "Drop it in the box in the basement of College Hall."

Ouiji Board Answers
Vital Questions

The silence was overpowering as two minds working in the same trend concentrated on the vital questions of this day and age. Breathless moments, suspense and drama enveloped the small gathering in Miss Jessie Casebolt's Little Theater as the Ouiji Board took little action and was termed unsuccessful.

Miss Lea Reid, passing by and hearing the commotion, stopped and decided to witness the goings on. Seeing that the procedure was incorrect she decided to enlighten the group. Miss Reid having been a Ouiji Board fan for a number of years, demonstrated the correct procedure and amazed the audience by a successful trial.

From then on the Ouiji Board was asked many questions, and a lot of interesting news was found: Marvin Kay was amazed to find out that he will be drafted in 3 months. Mary Falbo learned she would not flunk dramatics. Probably the most important question of all was confronted the Board, when asked, "How long will the war last?" Not even the mystic Ouiji Board could answer this question that thousand of master minds have been working on and predicting this day.

Gater Nine Slaughter Spartans 23 to 7

STATERS PLAY BANG-UP BALL AS COHEN, LAVENDER SMASH HOMERS; MURRAY IN THIRD STRAIGHT WIN

By TERRIBLE TERRY

Out-pitching, out-hitting, out-playing, entirely out-classing their opponents, the San Francisco State Gaters walloped San Jose State last Saturday in the Garden City with the tremendous score of 23 to 7.

Leading all the way, the Buchanan Street boys never gave the Spartans a chance, with chueker Dick Murray hurling nine strike-outs and allowing only five hits in the third consecutive win for the Staters this season. He also topped the hitters by getting four for six trips to the plate.

Starting things off for State, Johnny Nazar knocked a single over the head of San Jose's second sacker, Loudon, and stretched it into a double as the center fielder attempted to reach the ball but only succeeded in chalking up an error. Nazar scored after rounding the third on another Spartan error.

Three Scoring Innings

To equal this Huck, third baseman for the San Jose's, came home and tied the score. However, the Spartans were barely able to squeeze in six more runs, three of these in the third inning and the remainder in the sixth.

Dick Jaensch crossed the platter with the next Purple and Gold run, after reaching first and second on an error and continuing on a double smashed by John Lavender, in the second.

The third frame brought home four more Gater runs for four hits, one a smooth triple by Frank Cohen. Scoring were Rog "slow-motion" Fanfelle, Murray, Cohen, and Jaensch.

A scoreless session followed and then the fifth: Murray scored on a single, a double by Elm Roelling and a sacrifice hit by Cohen, Roelling also completed the circuit by stealing home.

Cohen Knocks Home Run

In the sixth, the Staters completely broke up their competitors defense as they sailed over the plate six times and got four more hits. This time Cohen connected to blast a homer directly between the right and center fielders. Coming in were Fanfelle, Murray, Cohen, Lavender, John Gonzales, and Grove "Never-on-time" Mohr.

Nazar and Gonzales landed home safely in the seventh, bringing the total Gater runs to sixteen.

Another scoreless inning preceded the breath-taking ninth, in which the Farmer boys again ran wild as they managed to execute seven runs on singles by Murray, Gonzales, and Mohr, and a homer smashed by Lavender while the bags were loaded.

Fanfelle Tries Out for Track

Adding to the walk-away game, Rog Fanfelle cracked a high one out to the first baseman in the seventh, and then, as the Spartan misjudged the ball, failed to catch it, tried to beat Johnny Gonzales, who had been on first, to second. Both boys slid into the bag at the same time, but, much to his disgust, Rog was ruled out. As he came off the field, he panted, "Gee, Mr. Farmer, I was just using strategy. You know — confuse the enemy!"

Barbara Krause, Popular Co-Ed Nationally Ranked Tennis Star

By LUELLA DAVIS

BARBARA KRAUSE

San Francisco State's brightest athletic star is Barbara Krase, high junior and Alpha Omega prexy. She is one of the ranking tennis players of America today.

Miss Krase has been playing tennis for the past six or seven years, and in that short time she has held many titles including the National Junior Hard Court championship and San Francisco City championship.

Like the majority of tennis stars she started out by joining a tennis club and climbing the tournament ladder to the top rung. Holding key position Miss Krase was sent to represent the club in a tournament which she won and which also led her on her road to fame.

HOLDS TITLES

Miss Krase now holds championship titles for, The Pacific Northwest, Washington State, and Inland Empire. She holds the California State, Doubles title and also San Francisco State's intramural mixed doubles title with Dick Murray. In her various tournaments Miss Krase has played against such outstanding players as Pauline Betz, Margaret Osborne, Louise Brough and Virginia Kovacs.

Probably her most difficult match was between Shirley Catton in the National Junior Hard Court tournament in Philadelphia. Miss Catton was in the lead up to the third set with a score of 4-1 in her favor. With the odds against her Miss Krase managed to retrieve her score and return the victor. At this meet she also was awarded the Sportman Trophy — A very high honor.

Miss Krase is trying to arrange exhibition matches at State with Margaret Osborne, Shirley Catton and Virginia Kovacs in the near future.

FROM WHERE I SIT

Because I had the questionable good fortune to arrive at draft age over the week-end, and my board informed me that my draft number would be of microscopic size, I considered it a good idea to get in some service before the Army recognized my alibities. Accordingly, I set out for Air Corps Ground School.

My first problem was the enlistment papers. After the question, college education? I had dutifully written, year and a half at San Francisco State. A young soldier, suspected of having unusual intelligence came up to me and asked, "where is San Francisco State?" "San Francisco, California", I replied, reddening. The Army plays no favorites.

DENTIST'S ATTENTION

Next came my physical. First man to face me was a psychiatrist. He approached me like a school teacher approaches a snake, he encircled me several times regarding all my flanks. Finally he spoke, "say thirty-two!" My tongue felt like a bath-towel, but I did my best with a tough assignment. "All right," he said, begrudgingly, still not convinced that the stock was of good stuff. I moved off, relieved, but certain that I had been marked for close observation, and that any sleep-walking would be fatal.

For three hours the examiners went up and down my body as if it were the Atlantic City boardwalk. I made my bid for recognition in the dentist's chair. For some biochemical reason I had during my eighteen years acquired more cavities than the Chinese Army, and this scientific four leaf clover has sent the department into a ecstasy. Each interne had to climb in and see for himself.

"This doesn't happen every day, one of them told me when he had reappeared. "Some mouth!", observed the chief of staff, a little less exuberant than his colleague, "You must have gotten very little calcium at home." "Mother called me chalkless" I told him.

On the way to ear, nose, and throat, a pompous looking captain, the real Army man type, came up to me and said "Your name Rubin?" "Yes, Sir," I said, wondering whether there would be a question of legitimacy. "Have you had two years' of college math?" "I had it in high school." "But, have you had two years of college math?"

"What kind of math, sir?" little misplaced trigonometry was not going to come between me and the Air Corps.

"It just says two years of college math, and if you haven't had it, we can't use you!" Finnis, What Ho Infantry!

EPITHEM

One of the unfortunate errors that are forever interrupting the peace of a journalism office cropped up again two weeks ago.

Ed Murray, who had been covering tennis news in a column entitled "Off the Wood", turned in his story but through an error in the sports make-up, it did not appear in the "Gater". Murray became indignant and announced his intention of discontinuing "Off the Wood". He was absolutely in the right in his actions, and no hard feelings exist. The Gater Sports Department was in error, and a formal public apology is hereby extended to Ed. We sincerely hope, that "Seek and Ye Shall Find", the other column written by Murray, enjoys a more lasting success.

NORMAN KELLER LEADS SCORING FOR ARMY TEAM

NORMAN KELLER

One of the leading scorers on McClellan Field's pace-setting basketball squad is PFC Norman Keller, former star center for San Francisco State College. The 20-year-old norm has been serving as both guard and forward on the McClellan quintet, one of the leading teams in the Northern California Basketball association race.

Among Keller's teammates are Gordon Caretson, former U.C. player; Frank Laney, ex-Santa Clara star; Phil Ortiz, COP forward last year; and Al White, of Modesto Junior College. Keller and his fellow players perform vital Army jobs at McClellan Field, which is an Air Service Command control depot.

(EDITORS NOTE:—Norm has been home on a furlough this past week and has spent many of his spare moments visiting State. It's been nice to see you, Norm.)

Staters Trounce St. Peters For 4th Win

Continuing their winning streak State's fighting baseball team battered the St. Peter's nine 6 to 3, in a thrilling exhibition of the National pastime yesterday at Big Rec.

Ed Murray handled the pitching duties for the Gaters and did a fine job, allowing only five hits. Rog Fanfelle took over the catching position, leaving left field, his regular outpost to Don Pagani and Dick Jaensch.

Hitting honors for the day went to Elm Roelling, the Purple and Gold's sounding shortstop who smashed out three hits, one a double, for four trips to the plate.

Credit for the game's best hit should be given to Ernie Leydecker. He really blasted a hard one out to left field. Nice going, Ernie.

FRESHMEN CHAMPIONS

Summing up the sports events for the first nine weeks period, the most outstanding of all was W.A. A. Basketball. The last game played Tuesday, brought together the all-star team, combined of sophs, junior, seniors; and the freshmen team. What a game!

The freshmen, with the odds home home their first run of the game, while the Farmer boys had a scoreless session.

Another tally in the fourth by Mohr, and the Purple and Gold was at it again. They managed six runs for five hits in the fifth; crossing the platter were Dick Jaensch, John Lavender, John Gonzales, Finkle, Mohr, and Murray.

A J.C. run in the sixth and three more in the eighth ended the scoring, and State emerged victorious over a college team for the first time this season.

against them, still remained victorious over the all-stars with a score of 25-21. The freshmen team, less experienced and with fewer players battled against the all-star team to become the winners of this season's basketball tournament. The frosh have won all their games except a tie with the juniors in their first meet.

Gaters Vs. San Jose State At New Campus Tomorrow

ing. Aileen Donohue made the freshmen's free throws really count as she took aim and rolled the frosh score up another notch. Both teams battled hard for the title honor and it is safe in saying the better team won.

Next week badminton and softball begin for the later part of the semester. Nothing definite has been scheduled for the annual softball game between the students and faculty, but with the emphasis on physical fitness there should be some interesting slants on the situation.

INTERESTING SIGTS

The Army, Navy, Sea Bees, Marines and Merchant Marines have their pin-up girls, but States Women's Gym beholds the number one pin-up boy of this war. Evelyn Woodard, W.A.A. prexy, has adorned her locker with the "most handsomest" specimen of males State's gym has probably seen. A little out of place, he still receives the same response as Frank Sinatra would, could he be heard there.

BATTING AVERAGES

With three wins and two losses to their credit, State's nine enters its second half of the season boasting the following batting averages:

Player	AB	R	H	Pct.
Elm Roelling	19	4	8	.421
Dick Murray	20	10	7	.350
Grove Mohr	20	9	6	.333

The team's line-ups at the beginning of the game were as follows:

ALL-STARS

Evelyn Woodard, captain	RF
Shirley Jones	LF
Charlie Plumb	CF
Frances Galloway	RG
Arilee Hansen	LG
Cornelia Chung	CG

The first half of Tuesday's game was full of spills and casualties. Gloria Gamba and Arilee Hansen both decided playing out on the balcony was much nicer, but the majority overruled and they soon returned. The truth of the situation is — through an entanglement of legs, arms, feet and basketball a combustion naturally arose and the two were thrown from the scene, through the gym doors and onto the balcony. The all-stars' famous guard Francis Gallagher, held up the freshmen offensive until an injured hand sent her out of the game.

Evelyn Woodard kept the all-star score up by engineering some beautiful plays and excellent shoot-

Gater Defeat J.C. Rams 13-5; Murrays Share Pitching Duty

Out-pitching, out-hitting, definitely out-playing their opponents, State's baseball nine battered the Rams of San Francisco Junior College, 13-5, in a high-scoring exhibition of the national pastime on the diamond at the New Campus last Thursday.

Contrary to previous performances, the Gaters led in this contest throughout the game. Dick Murray started on the mound for the winners, but brother Ed relieved him in the later innings and received credit for the victory, thereby keeping it all in the family.

Mohr, Murray Score Fiest Starting things, Rog Fanfelle, the first man to face the J.C. pitcher, walked to first and advanced around to third on singles by Grove Mohr and Dick Murray. Attempting to reach home by stealing, he was tagged out, however this allowed Mohr to reach third and Murray second. Both boys scored when Johnny Nazar sent a hard one to the J.C. second sacker, who apparently found the ball too hot to handle and allowed it to continue on to right field. This brought the Staters out front 2-0 at the end of the first inning.

They stacked up four more runs in the second when Irv Finkle, Fanfelle, Mohr and Murray manufactured bingles and were all able to score.

J.C. Starts Offensive In the third, the Rams brought

Staters Will Vote On Coming Issue

State students will be called upon to vote at three elections in the near future: incorporation of the student body; acceptance of the new constitution; and, of the former are passed, officers of the new corporation.

Articles of Incorporation, to be voted upon at the first election, were drawn up to prove finally that the student body was a non-profit organization and to avoid liability for state and federal taxes.

Acceptance of the constitution will call for election of the officers named therein. The central control will be vested in the Board of Directors, to consist of five student body officers, (president vicepresident, secretary, treasurer, and rally commissioner), seven members at large (three of whom must be from the lower division), and three faculty members.

Student body officers will be elected for the fall term, while the members at large will take office immediately.

Three faculty representatives will be chosen through suggestion by the Board. They must then be approved by the president of the student body and voted upon by faculty members of the corporation.

Faculty members may join the corporation by purchase of special faculty membership cards, which will be lower in cost than the student body cards and grant fewer privileges.

Student Faculty Discussion Highlights Post-war Period

"The change from war psychology to peace psychology" was the subject of discussion yesterday noon in the Little Theater at the student-faculty round-table, sponsored by Delta Sigma, Debate Club.

Speakers included Drs., Somerville Thompson, Alfred Fisk and Edward Cassidy, of the faculty; Aubrey Wendling, Charles Duncan and John Harvey of the student body. Dr. Elias Arnesen presided as moderator.

Dr. Thompson opened the discussion with four points for post-war psychological adjustment: consideration of civil rights, tolerance, cooperation and international viewpoint.

Mr. Wendling suggested that proper conditioning would require not only unprejudiced mental attitude, but that the accent should be on action. "To believe, and to fight against things we disbelieve," said Wendling.

Dr. Fisk, in agreement with both speakers, stated that the change would require more emotional conditioning than intellectual. Although he saw no immediate solution to the problem, he threw open this question: "How will the physical attitude be changed?"

Mr. Duncan made the first step toward something concrete by saying, "The proper attitude concerning race prejudice must be brought about by evolution rather than revolution. Those whites who are unprejudiced should bring the problem to the public by being friendly and sociable, thus denouncing non-white prejudice."

Dr. Cassidy, shifting the subject back to the war, commented on the anti-axis hatred which he believes prevails as a necessary evil during the war.

"The war should not be forgotten too soon," stated Dr. Cassidy. "I have always felt that the world is a brotherhood of human beings, yet we must not be too idealistic in our conditioning. We must not forget the tyrannies that have twice within the last 30 years been brought to the world by a minority group. While advocating brotherhood, goodwill and tolerance, we must not hold 'blind faith' in any nation, if while doing so we should allow another war to befall posterity."

Mr. Harvey followed in that line of thought by offering his belief that moderation, which would include tolerance, understanding, and the humanistic attitude, should be the keynote in changing war psychology to peace psychology.

This forum round-table is the second of a series on current topics of interest sponsored by the Debate Club. Watch the announcements and attend the next.

More Fisk Discussion

that 1,000,000 negro soldiers are not being used in this war, but are merely being shuttled from one camp to another, being trained and retrained, to break their spirit.

Recognition of a few negro heroes has been reluctant and slow, he declared.

Dr. Fisk termed segregation and discrimination in the armed forces the greatest race problem today, and blamed this for the Harlem riots of last year.

"The Harlem riots," he said, "were primarily by mobs of negro servicemen whose resentment at the treatment they have received welled up and went out of bounds."

He told of one negro victim of a ship torpedoing who drifted with his white companions on a raft for 28 days in perfect harmony, but when they reached Miami, Fla., the negro was unable to obtain medical care because of discrimination, while relief agencies fell over one another in efforts to lavish aid on the whites.

Dr. Fisk pictured the world as a great rainbow of peoples, and "the greatest problem is for people with past differences to live together."

He challenged his audience to stop and think: "What would you yourself say if a negro family, a high grade negro family, wanted to move in next door to you?"

"To make real Democracy work," he said, "will depend on the practice rather than the profession of racial equality."

After all Dr. Fisk said, the Caucasian peoples are in minority in the world as a whole. Non-caucasians outnumber caucasians at least two to one.

A huge step in the direction toward racial equality would be made "if we could get to know the members of the other races better and be friends."

He cited the Marin City housing project at Sausalito as an example where whites and negroes live together "under the same roof", so to speak, and racial discrimination is practically nil.

"The answer is apparent," he concluded, "in little islands of sanity in an insane world."
